Soothing Sanctuary

To help achieve their daily personal best for career and family, Cook Remodeling designed a private sanctuary to energize, sooth, and renew. Making up the list of must-haves for this Arizona couple: a walk-in shower, tub, his-and-hers bathrooms, separate walk-in closets, their own laundry, a chandelier, and a private office/library.

This project offers many solutions to match varying moods of how to discharge stress. The library is a quiet retreat with French doors that open to a patio, complete with soothing sounds from a stacked-stone waterfall feature. The glass block shower floods the space with natural light. Its Danze Rainhead shower fixture offers another means to experience nature. Eliciting fond memories even when not in use, an old-fashioned Victorian claw foot tub is surrounded with beadboard.

“Her” walk-in closet addition has floor-to-ceiling enclosed cabinetry to tuck away all clothes and maximize storage. It has an adjacent stacked washer and dryer. The closet was oversized to include their treadmill and space to exercise. The husband enjoys having his own walk-in closet. His expanded bathroom gave the space for a seating bench perfect for stretching and massages. The wife enjoys her personal vanity with ample counter space and flattering illumination. Cook Remodeling’s solutions for this couple’s needs and lifestyle have made a great space in which they can begin and end each day. «
